

Sigma is Your Single Source for Owner Representative Services

ACHIEVE YOUR EXPECTATIONS

Sigma provides clients with a professional approach to the construction process, with the idea of furnishing clients with comprehensive project services. This process places construction industry professionals in a partnership with owners, rather than their previously perceived roles as adversaries. Offering a wide range of construction services to our clients, Sigma performs each job with diligence and dedication.

When owners must contract out day-to-day management of a project, yet want to retain control over the final product, Sigma is the experienced management firm that can take responsibility for the execution of the entire program. With a variety of expert professional consulting services, Sigma offers total project control, from inception to completion.

Sigma offers a controlled approach to today's complex projects that results in project cost savings, expedited project schedules, and efficient document management, all while attaining high-quality results. At Sigma, we believe that extensive strategic planning is a prerequisite to successful management of a project and leads to an orderly progression of the work from the development of the concept through final design and acceptance of the finished project.
